GRANT FUNDED RESEARCH

Urban Social and Political Choice Situations, funded by National Science Foundation Grant #SES-9904482, 1999-2000. The principal investigator was Professor Elaine B. Sharp, Department of Political Science, University of Kansas. I was one of the six faculty associates in this project, which focused on how ten city governments handled issues that sometimes invoked community controversies on morality grounds. My research focused on one city's responses to the issues of abortion, adult entertainment, gambling, gay rights, hate crimes, medical marijuana, needle exchange, pornography, prostitution, and public art. I wrote historical narratives for each topic; conducted interviews with public officials (mayor, city councilmember, city attorney, police chief, district attorney and human relations director), activists, and political observers (professors and journalists); and constructed a coded list of incidents of governmental responses. Results were published in Elaine B. Sharp, Morality Politics in American Cities, Lawrence: University Press of Kansas, 2005.
